Duty of Disclosure

We rely upon the information You provide Us to decide whether to insure You and the terms on which We will insure You. Australian law requires You to tell Us about certain matters so We can make that decision. This is known as Your Duty of Disclosure.

To comply with Your Duty of Disclosure when first entering into an insurance contract with Us, You must tell Us everything You know and that a reasonable person in the circumstances could be expected to know, in answer to questions We may ask You.

To comply with Your Duty of Disclosure when You extend or make changes to Your Policy, You must tell Us everything that You know and which a reasonable person in the circumstances could be expected to know is relevant to Our decision whether to insure You and, if so, on what terms.

This Duty of Disclosure applies to everyone insured under the Policy. You do not have to tell Us anything that is common knowledge, that decreases the risk We are insuring, that We already know or should know through Our business, or that We indicate We do not want to know.

If You fail in Your Duty of Disclosure, We may be entitled to reduce or deny any claim You may make or cancel Your Policy. If You fraudulently keep information from Us or deliberately make false statements We may avoid Your contract and treat Your Policy as if it never existed.
